

Introducing the grammar of talk (2004)

This is a ground breaking document which introduces the grammar of spoken language into the classroom. It shows how there are features of talk which are common and can be analysed grammatically to uncover features of effective oral communication. There are also teaching sequences which show how classroom investigations into talk can reveal and support students' language learning.

To access the full document please click on the link below:

Introducing the grammar of talk \(2004\)

